Attack on Hawaii Expected

Army War Plans
Had Taken Such Action Into Account, Says Major

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—Maj. Gen. Herman Miles said today that army war plans always had taken into account a surprise enemy attack on Hawaii and that intelligence officers "very much feared" the Japanese might strike somewhere on Dec. 7, 1941.

Miles, chief of army intelligence at the time of the Japanese raid on Pearl Harbor, told a senate-house committee investigating the disaster the fears of an attack were linked to the delivery of a Japanese diplomatic note at 1 p. m. that day. However, he said, intelligence officers did not know where the Japanese might strike.

The Army consistently thought in terms of an eventual war with Japan, Miles told the committee. "A surprise attack on Hawaii was always part of our war plans. We also assumed that we would not have the assistance of the United States fleet which might well be blocked in the Atlantic," Miles added.

Always a Factor
He said the army conducted one war game years ago in which troops, simulating an enemy, landed on a Sunday morning in Honolulu harbor. Besides that, Miles declared, "an air attack at dawn was a factor always considered." In 1932, he said, "there was a great deal of discussion of an attack by air" and in 1935 or 1936 Lieut. Ben. Hugh Drum dwelt on a carrier attack on Pearl Harbor in some army correspondence. The committee immediately acted to get that correspondence from army files.

Miles said however that the army felt "there was no possible way of catching a surprise attack before it fell except by reconnaissance from Hawaii."

Did Not Inquire
"In view of that and all these other factors," Gerhard Gesell, committee counsel, asked, "did you inquire whether reconnaissance was being conducted properly?" "I did not," Miles replied, "it was not a responsibility of military intelligence."

In describing army concern over the possibility of a Japanese attack on December 7, 1941, Miles told the committee that a war with Japan had become a strong probability in the minds of army leaders early in that month.

He said that interception of Tokyo's direction of its "peace" envoys to deliver their note on the fateful Sunday caused him to call the attention of Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, to the critical situation.

"We didn't know where it was coming," the general testified, "but we very much feared that the attack was coming coincident with the 1 p. m. delivery of the Japanese reply."

Japan Faced Crisis
Earlier in the diplomatic negotiations leading up to the outbreak of war, Secretary of State Hull had given the Japanese a set of counter proposals.

Gerhard Gesell, committee counsel, asked Miles what the intelligence division had thought about the possibilities of war with Japan in mid-November of 1941.

"One thing I felt sure was that Japan faced a crisis that would almost certainly result in radical action on her part," Miles replied.

He added that this action could have taken one or more of several forms such as an attack on Russia, expansion to the south, as assault on Hongkong, increased efforts to crush China and "lastly, Japan might add to her enormous burdens and the strain on her military establishment by attacking the two great naval powers, the United States and Great Britain."

Damage Suits Dismissed

Six damage suits, filed against Mrs. Mary A. Siegel, doing business as the Sedalia Bus Company, following an accident in which one of the city buses collided with a car, occupied by residents of Tipton, have been dismissed in the circuit court. They were settled with prejudice to the plaintiffs and at the cost of the defendant.

The plaintiffs were, Gladys Billingsley, L. W. Billingsley, Mrs. Forest Herald, Richard Hudson, Mrs. Beulah Hudson, Forest Herald.

Rucker and Schwartz, of Kansas City, were attorneys for the plaintiffs and Montgomery, Martin and Salveter for the defendant.

Truman Gives Endorsement To Sen. Briggs

Democratic Leaders Discuss
State Politics

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—Declaring that "the president said he thinks Senator Briggs had made a fine senator," two Democratic leaders said yesterday that President Truman endorsed Senator Frank P. Briggs (D-Mo) for another term in the senate.

Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national committee chairman, and Richard Nacy, state chairman, made the announcement to reporters after a conference with the president in which Briggs participated.

The senator, who was given a gubernatorial appointment to Truman's old senate seat when he became vice president, will be a candidate for the nomination in the Democratic primary next August, Nacy said.

Discussed Appointments
Briggs said the four discussed generally the appointments of a district attorney, U. S. Marshall and collector of internal revenue at St. Louis, which are to be made next year.

He asserted that no decisions were made and declined to disclose names which may have been mentioned at the meeting.

There was no discussion of state campaign organization or about races in the house, he said.

Briggs told a reporter it was pretty well understood that Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri would support his senate race. Donnelly appointed Briggs to the senate last year to fill Truman's vacancy.

Rescue Work Progressing

COOS BAY, Ore., Nov. 30.—(P)—Airplanes, aided by improving weather, began an aerial search today for seven men missing since a Monday plane crash in the isolated mountains 50 miles north-east of here.

Fifty more men were ordered to join afoot searching parties and 30 of them had already reached the remote, heavily wooded terrain.

Capt. Robert Lorts, Portland army air base public relations officer who flew here to aid in the hunt, reported rescue work progressing as smoothly as possible in the roadless terrain. Four more planes from Portland were sent to this southern Oregon area.

The five men already rescued, one of whom hung 36 hours 150 feet high in a fir tree, were to be flown to Portland army air base today. None is injured.

The plane, based at Sedalia, Mo., crashed after weather prevented its landing at McChord field, Tacoma, Wash.

Four deaths were reported in New England, 11 in New York and three in New Jersey as a result of the storm.

Young House Republicans Independent

Intend to Speak
For Themselves
On Major Matters

By William F. Arbogast
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—Danger signals for any early agreement on a mid-term Republican policy program were raised today by a group of first and second term house Republicans.

As senate and house GOP steering committees continued meetings in an effort to present an affirmative policy statement to the party's national committee meeting Dec. 7, in Chicago, 39 house members whose service started with the last congress joined today in this warning to the leadership:

They intend to express their own views on major matters and not let party leaders speak for them.

The group issued a formal statement which contained no reference to any rift. But several members said privately that one has developed between the younger and older Republicans.

Made public by Rep. Augustus W. Bennett of New York, the statement called for non-partisan investigation and in consideration of universal training proposals now under study. It said the group believed an expression on those two subjects "is appropriate at this time."

The purpose of the statement, several signers said privately, is to dispel any idea that veteran house Republicans whose views frequently receive attention reflect the sentiments of the entire Republican house delegation.

Individual Views
"Some press and radio comments have attributed to the Republican party certain positions on current controversial issues," the declaration read. "These comments are based upon views expressed by individual members."

The statement emphasized that the Republican leadership has "made no effort to influence our votes" on universal training and on the Pearl Harbor investigation recently ordered by congress.

The only purpose of the Pearl Harbor inquiry, the group said, "is to bring all the facts to light so that, on the basis of full knowledge, we may be in a position to avoid a repetition of this awful disaster. We emphatically reject any suggestion that our government should have acquiesced in Japan's program of aggression."

"Only if the investigation is conducted fearlessly and without favor, prejudice, or partisanship will the effort be justified and the findings be accepted."

The question of universal military training requested by President Truman, the group said, should be decided solely on its merits."

Signers of the statement in addition to Bennett are Reps. Adams of New Hampshire, Arnold of Missouri, Auchincloss of New Jersey, Frank A. Barrett of Wyoming, Marion T. Bennett of Missouri, Buck of New York, John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Albert M. Cole of Kansas, William C. Cole of Missouri, D'Ewart of Montana, Ellsworth of Oregon, Elsaesser of New York, Fuller of New York, Fulton of Pennsylvania, Gillespie of Colorado, Goodwin of Massachusetts, Gwinn of New York, Hagen of Minnesota, Hand of New Jersey, Herter of Massachusetts, Heseltine of Massachusetts, Hal Holmes of Washington, Horan of Washington, Judd of Minnesota, Kearney of New York, Latham of New York, McCowen of Ohio, Rola C. McMillen of Illinois, Mathews of New Jersey, A. L. Miller of Nebraska, Phillips of California, Ramsey of Ohio, George B. Schwabe of Oklahoma, Sharp of New York, Stockman of Oregon, Tove of New Jersey and Vursell of Illinois.

The statement said the 39 represent 65 per cent of the Republicans elected to the house either during the present or the preceding congress.

Blaze, Elliott Roosevelt's Dog, Paid for Victory With his Life

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 30.—(P)—Blaze, Elliott Roosevelt's bull mastiff of Transcontinental plane ride fame, licked the late president's Scottie, Fala, but paid for the victory with his life.

The state health department said today Blaze was destroyed, as a precaution, by Dr. Thomas Sheldon, Rhinebeck veterinarian, but that examination of Blaze's head showed the dog did not have rabies.

Fala, a visitor Saturday at the Roosevelt Hyde Park estate, while ambling across a lawn met the 135-pound Blaze.

Fur began to fly—from the Scottie—but the mastiff was unhurt.

"I don't see that this is anyone's business except the family's," she said. "Furthermore, I don't know what you're talking about."

Then she asked the reporter: "I don't see how you ever heard about it—who told you?"

Eleven Rice Farms Sold At Auction

Near Quarter Of
Million For Choice
Lands In County

Eleven of the Rice Lehigh Farms owned by Okeo L. Rice, sold at public auction, Thursday afternoon at the Liberty theater, brought near a quarter of a million dollars. It took a little more than two and a half hours for the auctioneers to dispose of the farms, to buyers in an audience of more than 650 persons.

The farms totaling 4,988 acres were sold at an average of $44.93, an acre and an overall total amounted to $224,129.

Those familiar with auctions say it was one of the largest land auctions held in these parts, and the first of its kind to be sold by an individual. Mr. Rice stated he was forced to dispose of his holdings due to the growth of his poultry business to such large portions in recent years that it is consuming all of his time and efforts to properly manage it. "I am convinced," Mr. Rice said "that those who bought these farms will in the very near future, if they so desire, sell them at a good profit as I anticipate land value in Pettis county will increase."

Crawford Farm Sold

R. M. O'Bryan, Kansas City, Mo., purchased the second farm auctioned, it being the old Crawford farm of 380 acres. The farm was bought for the Midwest Land Co., of Kansas City as an investment. It brought $16,720 included in which is a mortgage of $10,500.

The farm is located on State Highway 127 two and a half miles north of La Monte.

The Jones farm of 687 acres was sold to J. L. Hieronymus, former Pettis county now residing at Buffalo, Okla., for $32,632.50 which includes a mortgage of $26,000. Mr. Hieronymus stated he bought the farm for an investment. It is located ten miles north of Sedalia and one mile south of Longwood.

Has Relatives Here

He is a brother of Frank Hieronymus, of near Houstonia, Killis Hieronymus of 901 South Missouri avenue, Virgil Hieronymus of north of Sedalia and Will Hieronymus of La Monte.

Mr. Hieronymus is a large ranch owner and cattle raiser in Oklahoma.

The McHenry farm of 450 acres located three and one-half miles northeast of Sedalia, was bought by Gordon Callis who bid $33 per acre or $14,850 for the farm in which was included in the price a mortgage of $10,000.

Mr. Callis owns and resides on a farm across the road from the farm he bought.

A down payment of 20 percent on each sale was made by the buyers to Henry C. Salveter of Montgomery-Martin-Salveter law firm, who will hold these payments until contracts for abstract titles are approved. The buyers have ten days to examine the title and five days to pay the balance of the purchase price.

Mr. O'Bryan purchased for the Midwest Land Co., the Wade farm, 435 acres, located ten miles west and north of Sedalia, which joins LaMonte on the north and west, for $21,750, in which is included a mortgage of $12,000. He also obtained the Kahn farm, 360 acres which joins the Wade farm for $16,560, in which is included a mortgage of $9,000.

These farms were first auctions individually and then jointly and the bids as individual farms accepted by the seller.

Dr. A. L. Walter, 120 West Fifth street, was the purchaser of the Phillips farm of 333 acres, for $15,150, his bid being $45.50 per acre. The bid included the mortgage of $8,500. The farm joins another farm which is owned by Dr. Walter nine miles northeast of LaMonte, which has 200 acres.

The addition gives Dr. Walter 533 acres.

W. C. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, 217 Pine street, Jefferson City were the purchasers of the old Tegtmeyer farm of 300 acres, ten miles northwest of Sedalia and a mile northeast of LaMonte. They bid $45 per acre or a total of $13,500 which includes a mortgage of $8,700.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards said they were buying the farm for an investment and not to live on. However, they told a reporter they intended moving to Sedalia next spring to occupy their home on East Tenth street. Mr. Edwards is an engineer for the Missouri Pacific.

The Phillips and Tegtmeyer farms were auctioned as one but individual bids were accepted when the joint bid was not more than those made, in the previous bidding.

The 419 acre Rice farm, seven miles west of Sedalia, was sold for $14,665 included in which was a mortgage of $12,000. It was bought by Mr. O'Bryan for the Midwest Land Co., who paid $35 an acre for the land.

Yamashita is Willing to Punish Troops

MANILA, Nov. 30.—(P)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita told his trial court today that he not only never authorized his subordinates to commit atrocities in the Philippines, but "if the present situation will permit, I will punish them to the fullest extent of military law."

His declaration was made in a 45-minute address to the U. S. military commission trying him on war-crimes charges. He added that he had inferior troops who badly needed training and discipline—which, under pressure of attack by superior American forces, he had no time to administer.

Earlier he had denied ever stating that he refused to declare Manila an open city because it would be a dishonor to Japanese arms.

The erstwhile "Tiger of Malaya," retaining his poise despite relentless cross-examination, emphatically denied having made such a statement to Jose Laurel, puppet president of the Philippines.

Prosecution witnesses have testified that mass rape and other horrors were committed by Japanese troops last February in the battle for Manila.

Some Results Of Hurley's Resignation

Fresh Criticism
Is Heard of U. S.
Policy in the East

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—New repercussions from the bomb shell resignation of Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley as ambassador to China shook Capitol Hill today.

1. President Truman's designation of General George C. Marshall as Hurley's successor was hit by one representative as a "poor appointment."

2. The senate heard fresh criticism of the state department and American policy in the Far East, and

3. Three congressional committees vied for an opportunity to question Hurley on why he quit his Chungking post.

4. Hurley told reporters he was willing to take on all comers but wanted the hearings public.

The criticism of Marshall was made by Rep. Patterson (D-Calif) at a special news conference. Patterson asserted the former chief of staff "doesn't know anything about China." He also found fault with Marshall's appointment "because he is a soldier."

Doubts Not Dispelled

In the senate, Senator Willis (R-Ind) said that Hurley's resignation statements criticizing "career diplomats" in Asiatic affairs "certainly do nothing to dispel our doubts about the efficiency of our foreign service."

"It seems to me that our department of state has a lot of explaining and housecleaning to do in the coming months."

The inside story of events leading to Hurley's resignation is something that interests the senate foreign relations committee, the house committee on un-American activities and the house military committee. All want to talk to him about it.

The resigned ambassador met these bids by expressing his readiness to appear "at any public hearing that is afforded me by congress," but emphasized that the hearings must be open ones.

The senate foreign relations committee, which has invited Hurley to appear next Wednesday, usually meets behind closed doors.

Hurley said he is committed to appear before this committee first, but added that he had not agreed to testify at any secret hearing of this body.

Surprise Witness On Stand

German Army's
Leading Spy Expert
Plotted for Years
To Kill Hitler

By Daniel de Luce
NUERNBERG, Nov. 30.—(P)—Rudolf Hess told the international military tribunal today that he accepted "full responsibility for all I have done, signed or co-signed," and that he wished to continue on trial with his fellow Nazis.

Hess declared that he had feigned loss of memory, even to his own attorneys, for "tactical reasons."

The court adjourned for the day without announcing a ruling on the mental fitness of the former No. 2 deputy fuhrer, whom Allied psychiatrists have reported sane, but suffering from hysteria. Hess' case was brought up after a surprise German witness testified that Germany's leading spy expert long plotted against Hitler and finally was executed in 1944 after the failure of the bomb plot against the fuhrer.

To Relate Inside Story
Adm. Walter Wilhelm Canaris, mysterious Greek-blooded chief of the German army's counter-espionage section, was named as a leader of the anti-Hitler military clique by Maj. Gen. Erwin Lahousen, Canaris' aide. Lahousen was the first witness called by the prosecution to relate the grim inside story of German scheming and aggression.

Lahousen said that Canaris, who ran the German spy service disguised as a commercial agency during the days of the German republic, hated Hitler and headed a military clique which plotted against the Nazi leader from the time he rose to power. Canaris was among many military leaders executed after Hitler escaped death in the 1944 assassination attempt.

Lahousen said Canaris unsuccessfully protested against mass murder and ill-treatment of Russian prisoners, who were starved until "cannibalism ensued."

Orders Thwarted
He said high command orders to assassinate two French generals, Maxime Weygand and Henri Geraud, were thwarted by Canaris.

Lahousen testified that Field Marshal Wilhelm Kietel, one of the defendants, wanted German secret agents to murder the two French military leaders after the fall of France to remove them as possible centers of French resistance in North Africa.

Weygand was Allied generalissimo at the time of the fall of France and later was Marshal Pétain's administrator

Sunday School Lesson

Exalting Christ in the Nation's
Life. Scripture: Isaiah 9:2-7;
Luke 1:26-30; Hebrews 1:1-4;
Peter 3:13-18; Jude 24-25.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

"The time draws near the birth of Christ." It is a good time to consider what Christ means to the world and what message from His life and teaching is most applicable to a democratic country facing the problems and dangers of the postwar era.

Already it is plain that the chief problems which the peace has left us are moral and spiritual. It is because of this that the peace we have won is in some respects no peace at all. Dissension and strife are still abroad, with killing and destruction in their wake and while our democratic freedom, in a sense, is demonstrated by the right to strike, and one cannot profess to assess the blame, our lack of united effort and supreme devotion to the common good is emphasized in the deep and widespread conflict between labor and management.

We are failing on the plane where the greatest success is necessary if the highest possible standard of living is to be attained and maintained. There never was a time when fairness, consideration, sympathy and brotherhood were more needed, not only for moral efficiency, but even for the most effective working of our economic life.

What is the message of Christ to the nation? It is first of all a message of God's redemptive love. Cruelty and unkindness are rampant in the world today because men have not experienced the love of God. The message that comes to us from John is: If God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

Two Parables are at the very heart of Christ's message concerning the spirit and practice of our daily lives and both have to do with our social welfare. One of these is the Parable of the Prodigal Son. We are in a world of prodigals and wasters. One of society's most vital problems will have to do with the great number of people who have made the wrong choice and the wrong turning. Many of them are going to discover it and turn again repentantly like the prodigal of old. We are talking a great deal about conversion in industry; we need a lot of conversion morally and socially.

The other Parable is that of the Good Samaritan. Religious profession is not going to be enough. The priest and the Levite, who pass by on the other side, where their fellowman lies bleeding, are done for so far as any good is concerned. The country needs good Samaritans—men and women who will be as efficient, courageous and prompt and resourceful in action, in serving and helping others as vast numbers of our soldiers have been in the business of war.

In this time of the world's need and in our own land, some are using the name of Christ to promote division, prejudice and discord. That is blasphemy. "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His."

Vocations For The Ministry

Servicemen who have seen action in the Pacific islands and other Far Eastern war theatres have brought back glowing reports of the work being done there by Christian missionaries. Many have been so impressed by what they have seen that they have expressed a wish to become missionaries themselves.

Others who have seen the church in action in the war-ravaged countries of Europe have learned to appreciate the vital importance of religion in building a better world and have decided that the Christian ministry offers them the best opportunity to cooperate in this task.

Revealing the thoughts of thousands of fighting men who have applied for admission to seminaries is this excerpt from a letter written by an army private in the Philippines:

"God has been good to me. He has given me loving parents; therefore I will give myself in return. He has given me a heart to love, so I will love Him with all my heart. He has given me ears to hear: I will listen for His voice. He has given me a brain to study: I will learn what He teaches. He has given me legs to walk: I will follow in His footsteps. He has given me a tongue to speak: I will tell the world of His goodness. He has given me hands to write and work and play: With these I will serve Him."

The churches have met the challenge of war and must now cope with the tasks of peace. There is a need everywhere—at home as well as in mission lands—for men of intelligence, courage and understanding to join its ranks. It is heartening to know that so many young men who will not shrink from hardship, discouragement or even persecution are importuning for the chance to fight another kind of battle.

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 — It has now become fashionable in some quarters to get out the dead cats and sling them in the direction of the White House. Some of the ivory-tower columnists are limbering up their arms. Some of the newspapers, hitherto gentle, have taken off the gloves. In other words, the honeymoon is definitely over — and no one knows it better than Truman himself.

However, the Truman administration marriage has got to last three more years, and there is no use brandishing the rolling pin or waving the skillet unless it gets us somewhere. Instead let's take an unbiased look at the man who didn't want to be president — his mistakes, his qualities, his achievements.

In the first place, you can chalk up two definite accomplishments for Truman: (1) He has appointed a better cabinet than Roosevelt; and (2) He has carried on Roosevelt policies unflinchingly.

The latter, of course, will not be considered much of an achievement by Republicans or any southern Democrats. However, Truman was elected on a Roosevelt ticket, pledged his word to continue the Roosevelt program and has lived up to his word.

Truman Sticks Chin Out
In fact he has shown more courage than FDR in many things. For instance, the late president had been urged to recommend a broad national health program, but he always sidestepped. Truman has now sent a message to congress urging what Roosevelt balked at doing. Again when it came to the FEPC, FDR ducked at too openly offending southern congressmen and let others carry the ball. But Truman stuck his chin out by writing a letter to the rules committee urging immediate action. Roosevelt never wrote a letter to the rules committee during all his 12 long years in office.

Truman has been equally forthright in regard to full employment, unemployment compensation, anti-trust suits, and offending his own friends by tackling the question of submerged oil. Roosevelt, though officially committed to this program, sometimes ducked. Truman not only hasn't ducked, he has led with his chin. And whether you agree with him or not, you can't help admire his courage.

Republicans who don't like the Truman-Roosevelt policies will agree that taken man for man, his cabinet far surpasses FDR's in ability, political acumen and general stature. Why then has he failed to get off the ground, while his predecessor, working with less able men and the same program, kept in the air?

Four Truman Troubles

The answer lies in four general reasons:

1. Roosevelt had the gift of going on the radio and swaying the public over the heads of congress. Truman lacks the radio technique, the theatrics, the ability to make that appeal. He is just as sincere as Roosevelt—perhaps more so. He is desperately trying to do a good job. But he can't whip congress into line by mobilizing public opinion. That was the most powerful weapon Roosevelt had.

2. Truman has been seriously wounded by the very group he has consistently sought to help—labor. Unauthorized strikes, such as the Washington, D. C., transit strike and the nationwide vote walkout of telephone workers convinced many people that Truman-Roosevelt policies of aiding labor had gone too far. All the strikes have hurt Truman politically, but the wildest strikes especially have ruined Truman's hand when it comes to social legislation and is bound to have its effect on the next election.

Dewey Was Right

3. Truman has let himself be dominated by the military when it comes to conscription, the garbled discharge of veterans and the use of ships for bringing men home. Politically he has played right into the hands of Governor Dewey who in the campaign of 1944 predicted this would happen.

Truman's whole experience as chairman of his investigating committee showed him how inefficient the army and navy could be when it came to shipping and manpower. Yet as president, he trusted the very same men whom he did not trust as senator. As a result, thousands of soldiers and sailors, plus several million members of their families are bitter. And when any president loses a big block of political support, he undermines his own strength with congress.

Truman Lacks "Brain Trust"

4. Finally, Truman has not been able to gather round him sufficient men with governmental "know-how." Running a delicate governmental machine is one of the toughest jobs in the world. There aren't many who can do it. In addition to good cabinet members, it requires skilled assistants in the White House.

FDR had a weak cabinet, but he had around him in the White House a group of expert, energetic trouble-shooters who knew government inside and out and served as a flying football squad to go into this department or that on special jobs. What Truman needs today is a few Tommy Corcorans. Instead he has surrounded himself with a bunch of genial, well-meaning gentlemen, largely from Missouri or Mississippi, who know little about government and spend almost as much time swimming in the White House pool as they do grappling with the vital problems of post-war America.

This is the most obvious weak-spot for Truman to remedy. The others are not easy to repair. In fact the political reactions from the labor situation may be beyond repair.

These are some of the problems Truman faces, plus the general problem that after any war there is a depressing, disillusioning let-down. As qualifications for meeting these problems Truman has sincerity, honesty, energy, courage and a reasonable amount of intelligence. But he is seriously lacking in experience and governmental know-how. Let's hope

Report On the War

Biennial Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army 1943 to 1945, to the Secretary of War
Published by NEA Service, Inc. in cooperation with the War Department

This is the 14th of 42 installments of material selected from General Marshall's report on the winning of World War II.

XIV AIR WAR

AT the time of the QUADRANT Conference at Quebec in August 1943, there had been but a single United States division in the United Kingdom and our trans-Atlantic shipping effort was concentrated on filling the heavy requirements of the Mediterranean campaign. By late August 1943, shipping was partially released from this heavy southern commitment and troops again began to pour into the British Isles. On D-Day, 6 June 1944, the strength of the United States Army in that theater was 1,533,000; in the interim an average of 150,000 men had been transported each month.

The build-up of this force, together with a corresponding accumulation of supplies of all kinds, involved a tremendous job of transportation, and special credit must be given to the Navy for its vital part in the undertaking. An enormous administrative task was also involved. Facilities for quartering and training such large forces had to be provided within the limited area of the United Kingdom. The efficiency of the preinvasion build-up is exemplified by the speed with which units landing in Britain were provided with their essential arms and equipment. Through a system of preshipping and storing, the Army Service Forces were able to have equipment distributed and waiting for each unit on its arrival. Within a maximum of 30 days after debarking, divisions were fully equipped and ready for action.

The units arriving in the United Kingdom from America were well trained, especially in fast-moving corps and army operations over large areas; those coming from the Mediterranean were battle-tested. Nonetheless, everything possible was done during their staging period in the United Kingdom to increase their combat efficiency despite the limited terrain available in a densely populated and cultivated countryside. The troops which were to make the assault landings maneuvered realistically on beaches and ground which approximated the target areas. In the early spring of 1944, joint exercises of the ground, sea, and air forces which were to make the attack were held along the southern coast of England. It was a full-dress rehearsal.

he picks up more of the latter before the air becomes too full of dead cats. After all, for better or for worse, he's our president until January, 1949 — and that's quite a long way off.

Capital Chaff

Former coast guard Comdr. Joel Fischer was in Germany trying to root out hidden Nazi funds. Cross-examining war criminals, he found them anxious to get American lawyers to act in their defense. When asked his views on the best American lawyers, Fischer, with straight face, replied: "You ought to try to get Clarence Darrow or Perry Mason." Fischer's victims took careful notes, not realizing that Darrow has been dead for more than five years and that Mason is a fictional character in Earle Stanley Gardner's mystery stories. . . . Government press officials last week beat down a second attempt by war mobilizer John Snyder to maintain a peacetime censorship over the statements of their bosses. They rejected all censorship schemes flatly during a secret session at the White House, promising to check among themselves to be sure major policy statements of cabinet members and other key officials are not too far apart. . . . Randolph Paul, one of the ablest tax men the U. S. treasury has ever had, is completing a book on taxation written for popular reading. Former Representative Hamilton Fish still has political ambitions. Frank Gannett's Newburgh, N. Y., News is keeping his name on the front page every chance it gets—even featuring a statement by the bitterly isolationist Fish that Newburgh should be the home of the United Nations. Following that story, the News printed a letter from a reader who wanted to know why the paper did not observe journalistic convention and run stories about Fish on the obituary page. . . . Because neither the army nor the RFC has a competent staff of experts to determine what surplus material is potentially valuable for civilian commercial use, thousands of dollars worth of material shunt back and forth between the two agencies with the army insisting it is commercially useful and the RFC saying it is not.

Three weeks before the invasion General Eisenhower wrote:

"There is no question at all as to the readiness of the troops. They are well trained, fit, and impatient to get the job started and completed. In forecasting future possibilities, it is, of course, necessary that we seek ways and means to bring to bear those factors in which we enjoy a great superiority over the enemy. These are control of the sea, command of the air, including resources in airborne troops and armor. I am trying to visualize an operation in which we would bring in behind the initial beachhead a great strength in armor and seek an opportunity to launch a big armored attack in conjunction with a deep and very heavy penetration by airborne troops."

By 1 July 1943 the Allied strategic air assault of Air Chief Marshal A. T. Harris' Royal Air Force Bomber Command by night and General Eaker's Eighth Air Force by day on the fortress of Europe was in full swing and was producing important results. Single raids in which the air force delivered bomb loads of more than 500 tons had been carried out. Serious inroads had been made on the combat power of the German fighter force.

These results had been obtained with an American air fleet of less than 1,000 heavy bombers and 1,000 planes of other types. By D-day, the strength of the United States air forces in the United Kingdom exceeded 3,000 heavy bombers and 6,500 first-line planes of other types. The attacks on Germany continued with increasing intensity and shattering power.

The climax in air war came in February 1944, when the Luftwaffe made a powerful effort to sweep our day bombers from the skies. The battle raged for a week. It was fought over Regensburg, Schweinfurt, and other critical industrial centers. The German fighter force was severely crippled, and our attacks continued with unabated fury.

Air Targets

From the time of the Eighth Air Force's first heavy bomber attack on 17 August 1942 until V-E Day, United States airmen had dropped more than 1,550,000 tons of bombs on western European targets. During 1943, following successful attacks on the enemy's submarine yards and bases, the effort of our precision bombers was concentrated against aircraft and ball-bearing manufacturing plants, airdromes, and communications. The German fighter command, already outclassed in aerial combat, was further reduced by inability to get replacements. The RAF Bomber Command concentrated upon the destruction of the Ruhr-Rhineland industries and the undermining of the morale of industrial workers.

In order to exploit more fully the flexibility of our bombardment, particularly against German industrial targets, the Eighth and Fifteenth U. S. Air Forces were combined on 1 January 1944 to form "The U. S. Strategic Air Forces in Europe." Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz was placed in command. The component forces continued to be based in the United Kingdom and in Italy respectively.

In the late spring of 1944, synthetic fuel plants and crude oil refineries became the prime targets. Captured documents now show that the bombing campaign succeeded in reducing production between May and October 1944 to five percent of the former monthly output.

The attack on German industry was coupled with strikes on German communications. Vital rail junctions and the canals which were so important in the enemy's transportation system were repeatedly bombed. During a single month—May 1944—more than 900 locomotives and 16,000 freight cars were destroyed in Western Europe. The effects of this phase of the air assault were enormous, for transportation and communications are the life arteries of a modern industrial state engaged in total war.

Medium bombers and fighter-bombers of Lt. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton's Ninth Air Force, which moved from the Middle East during the fall of 1943, struck enemy airfields in diversionary attacks so timed as to reduce the concentration of enemy fighters which might oppose the passage of the heavy United States bomber formations. Diversionary fighter sweeps further dislocated the enemy's air opposition. As the range of fighters was increased through the installation of additional fuel tanks, they were employed more and more to escort bombers to targets deep in Germany.

As the aerial offensive mounted the enemy was forced to withdraw fighters from the support of his armies in the East to meet the threat from the West. This was an important factor in enabling the Soviet air forces to maintain superiority on their front.

Tigers Accept Invitation to Cotton Bowl

Game Would be Missouri's Third Post-Season One

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 30 —(P)—The Big Six Conference faculty representatives have approved the University of Missouri's acceptance of an invitation to play the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex., on New Year's Day, Professor Sam B. Shirky, chairman of the Missouri committee on intercollegiate athletics, announced today.

By Harold V. Ratliff
COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 30.—(P)—A Texas team that is the living motto of its coach, D. X. Bible, who says "It's the finish that counts," holds the Southwest Conference football championship and the position of host team in the Cotton Bowl for the third time in four years.

Five times this season, the Longhorns have been called upon to come from behind; only once did they fail. But yesterday wasn't that time as the orange swarmed to the touchdowns in the final period to beat Texas A. and M. 20-10 in the fifty-second renewal of this bitter rivalry.

Immediately afterward Coach Bible accepted the automatic invitation to play in the Cotton Bowl and four hours later the University of Missouri, champion of the Big Six, accepted an invitation to be visiting team provided its conference gives permission today.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 30.—(P)—Formality of obtaining permission from the Big Six Conference today stands between the champion Missouri Tigers and their participation in the New Year's Day Cotton Bowl football game. Don Faurot, Missouri athletic director, said the university had accepted an invitation to meet the Texas Longhorns in the Dallas, Tex., classic subject to approval by the conference. The Missouri director was to poll member schools this morning, but since Big Six teams have already played in all four major bowls it was a foregone conclusion that the answer will be affirmative.

The Cotton Bowl would be Missouri's third post season game. The Tigers lost to Georgia Tech, 7-21, in the 1940 Orange Bowl and were nosed out by Fordham, 0-2, in the 1942 Sugar Bowl.

Started Poorly
Tutored by Chauncey Simpson while Faurot was doing a three-year stretch in the Navy, the Tigers started poorly this season by losing to Minnesota, 0-34, and to Ohio State, 6-47.

They came back strong, however, to knock off Southern Methodist, 10-7, and went on to make a grand slam of their five conference games. Only a loss to Michigan State, 7-14, marred their record after engagements with Big Ten opponents.

Led by Jim Kekeris, 235-pound veteran tackle, the Tigers gained four berths on the Associated Press All-Big Six team for 1945. Others making the mythical eleven were 141-pound Leonard Brown, quarterback, Center Ralph Stewart and End Roland Oakes.

Faurot, who came back to Missouri as athletic director two weeks ago, said Simpson would have "complete charge" of the Tigers in the Cotton Bowl. Faurot will resume head coaching duties next spring.

Simpson was out of town this morning and could not be reached for comment.

Just Town Talk

AT A Public GATHERING HELD in Sedalia SOME TIME Ago ONE OF THE FEATURES ON THE PROGRAM WAS A SINGER A BARITONE CONCERT TRAINED PERSON WHO SANG WITH CONSIDERABLE GUSTO AND FACIAL CONTORTIONS A FIVE YEAR Old BOY SITTING WITH HIS MOTHER PROBABLY HAD NO Appreciation FOR THE Music BUT HE WAS FASCINATED WITH THE SINGER AND AFTER Listening A SHORT Time HE NUDGED HIS MOTHER AND IN A Whisper LOUD ENOUGH TO BE HEARD ON ALL Sides Said "MOM IS THAT GUY DRUNK?" I THANK YOU

Steiner seemed highly pleased with the performance of the team.

The Tigers started off in a lead with 8 to 2 in the first quarter, followed by 14 to 6 in the second, 27 to 9 in the third and finished with Smith Cotton final 30; Sweet Springs 17.

Smith Cotton makes a trip again tonight to Concordia where at 7:30 the team meets Knob Noster and a fast game is anticipated.

Army Picked To Defeat the Navy Saturday
Probably by Four Touchdowns is the Claassen Opinion
By Harold Claassen
NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(P)—Army will defeat Navy in Saturday's service clash at Philadelphia is the opinion of this corner, whose guessing average for the season is .786.

The Cadets seeking their 18th consecutive grid victory and the second straight over the arch enemies from Annapolis, should triumph by a four touchdown margin, approximately 35 to 7.

That gives Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard — Army's atomic twins, a chance for two touchdowns each and a lone tally for one of their teammates. Navy should score once but the midshipmen definitely are cruising for a bruising.

Here's the final trip out on the football limb: Baylor-Rice: Rice's Owls, upset by a 14 to 13 margin last week in the fray with Texas Christian, will come back to spill the Bears, Rice.

Bet on Clemson
Clemson-Wake Forest: Ralph Jenkins, Clemson's great center, to guide his mates to an unbeaten Southern conference season.

Georgia - Georgia Tech: Too much Charlie Trippi. Georgia. Harvard-Yale: The Crimson to ruin Eli Coach Howie Odell's birthday. Harvard.

Mississippi State - Alabama: Harry Gilmer, Vaughn Mancha & Co., will enter the Rose Bowl as an undefeated outfit. Alabama.

UCLA-Southern California: The Trojans will earn the right in this one to oppose Alabama at Pasadena on Jan. 1. Southern California.

Finishing the rest in a hurry. Notre Dame over Great Lakes; Oregon over Oregon State; St. Mary's pre-flight over California; Texas Christian over Southern Methodist; Maryland over South Carolina; Tennessee over Vanderbilt; Virginia over North Carolina; Miami over Auburn (tonight).

Last week's record: 21 correct, 7 incorrect; average .750. Season's record: 309 correct, 83 incorrect; average .786.

Navy Special And Goering Car In Sedalia
Two Exhibits In Interest Of The Victory Loan

"Fats" Goering's super-deluxe Mercedes-Benz automobile, now the property of the U. S. Army, was on display in Sedalia Thursday evening and exhibits in a Navy Victory Loan special train also were scrutinized by hundreds of Sedalians, including many children, who visited these Victory Loan attractions at the Missouri Pacific tracks and Osage avenue. The Navy train arrived during the afternoon and was open to the public from 4 p. m. to 10 p. m. Opening ceremonies included talks by Mayor A. H. Wilks of Sedalia, Charles L. Hanley, general chairman of the Pettis County Bond Drive, and Lieut. Commander William T. Thomas.

It was pointed out by both local speakers that this county, which in seven previous war bond campaigns has met the quotas, but currently is approximately $122,000 short of reaching the E bond goal of $322,400. "Our servicemen have done their part—they fought for victory, and it is up to us who have been at home to complete the job by buying Victory bonds to finance the return of the soldiers, sailors and marines overseas and to implement the rehabilitation of the wounded," Mr. Hanley said. Drive closes December 8. The drive, which opened October 29, closes December 8. Mayor Wilks, who outlined briefly the exhibits aboard the special train, declared in concluding his speech that "I am sure I voice the sentiments of all Pettis counties that we ought to and will not fail to fill our quota of $322,400 in the Eighth Victory Loan campaign."

An inspiring attraction on the train is a duplicate of the bronze plaque on the Battleship U. S. S. Missouri, commemorating the surrender of the Japanese on September 2. Inscribed are these words: "Over this spot on 2 September, 1945, the instrument of formal surrender of Japan to the Allied powers was signed thus bringing to a close the second World War. The ship at that time was at anchor in Tokyo Bay. Latitude 35 degrees, 21' 17" North; Longitude 139 degrees, 45' 36" East."

Hermann Goering's powerful convertible sedan, built to provide sufficient allowance for the gift of its once bemedaled owner, was removed under fire from the garage at his hunting lodge at Berchtesgaden by men of the 506th Parachute Infantry, 101st Airborne Division, who brought the car to Sedalia. These men, who volunteered to go on tour with the sleek-black machine in the interest of the Victory Loan Drive are: First Lieut. Jack G. Holland, Rocky Mount, Va.; Tech. Sgt. Thomas F. Meggs, Union County, N. C.; Cpl. Roderick D. Smith, Toccoa, Ga.; S/Sgt. Richard Falvey, Yonkers, N. Y.; Staff Sgt. Frank J. Malik, Detroit, Michigan.

Were Guards For President
 Three military police traveling with the capturers of the car are Cpl. Norman Robbott, Pfc. George Hopkins, Pfc. Frank Barnett, who at one time were military guards for the late President Roosevelt at the White House. The mechanic with the unit is T/5 Cleon Kelly, who serviced the top official automobiles in Washington.

No Meet For The Big Three

President Sees No Need For It To Solve Present Issues

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—President Truman today vetoed talk of any more meetings with Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee. He said he is looking to the United Nations to solve problems heretofore reserved for the big three.

At the same time, the President expressed confidence in Russian cooperation for world peace and said he does not share fears that lack of cooperation by Russia would lead to war.

In a busy few minutes at his news conference the President also:

1. Revealed that negotiations are under way for revision of Allied control machinery in Germany—particularly for a change in the requirement that no action affecting all four occupation zones can be taken until the United States, Britain, France and Russia are unanimously agreed.

2. Said that Gen. George C. Marshall will leave for China in three or four days as special envoy following up Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, resigned ambassador, Marshall will be under instruction to carry out established American policy in China and his instruction will be published.

3. Promised full discussion at a later date of the whole question of reconverting international affairs from war to peace.

4. Expressed conviction that most other nations are as wholeheartedly in favor of the United Nations as is the United States. The President's foreign affairs discussion began incidentally to his prepared report on the progress of reconversion of the American economy to peacetime activities. This described the first 100 days of reconversion within the country.

Quiz On Reconversion

After it was finished Bert Andrews of the New York Herald Tribune asked the President whether he could say anything about the first 100 days of reconversion on the international front-days characterized by such incidents as the explosive resignation earlier this week of Ambassador Hurley, the congressional blast at UNRRA, scattered evidences of weakening cooperation among the Allied powers and particularly by two fears.

The reporter said these fears are first, that Russia will not cooperate in world peace efforts and second, that non-cooperation by Russia will lead to war.

Mr. Truman began answering the question before it was completed. He said that he does not share either of those fears and that he will discuss the situation fully at a later date when the turmoil gets hot enough. Someone suggested that it seems pretty hot now and, amid laughter, the President said well, let it settle down a little bit.

Asked at a news conference whether revisions in Allied control policy and machinery for Germany might require a meeting of himself, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee, Mr. Truman said he was not in favor of special conferences.

He wants the United Nations to do its job, he added, asserting he remembers that the League of Nations was ruined by special conferences.

The president stated he hoped the United Nations would take over within the next 90 days all the problems previously worked out by Big Three meetings.

In his discussion on foreign policy Mr. Truman also developed these points:

No Fear of Russia

1. He does not share either the fear which he said some persons in the country hold that Russia will not cooperate toward world peace or that Russia's policies

Major Ludemann to Be Released Soon

Major Fred L. Ludemann has arrived at Jefferson Barracks Separation Center, St. Louis, and will be released from active duty within a few days. He has been Africa, southern France and Italy overseas thirty-two months in as commanding officer of the 23rd Depot Supply Squadron of the Army Air Forces.

He is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Ella May Wentworth, in Webster Groves while awaiting release from the army and with her expects to visit in Sedalia soon.

Route Frisco Through City

The Texas Special and the Blue Bonnet M-K-T and Frisco passenger trains, which operate over Frisco to St. Louis were routed through Sedalia Thursday due to a wreck of a Frisco freight train which occurred in Pulaski county between Helm and Hancock.

The two trains routed through Sedalia were fifteen hours late. In Sedalia they were serviced with water and ice. During the short stay here passengers jammed the station filing telegrams. Leo Lennartz, Western Union manager in Sedalia was called to the station to take over the rush business of telegrams.

The Frisco wreck resulted in an engine and nineteen cars of merchandise being overturned. Two trainmen, A. R. Blackburn and Brakeman E. A. Nimmo, both of Springfield, were injured.

Hunter's Gun Accidentally Discharged

Vincent Sullivan Has Severe Wound, Is in Hospital

Vincent Sullivan, 20, 313 East Saline street, received a severe wound in the front part of his right hip about 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning when his shotgun accidentally was discharged as he was removing it from his automobile. The accident occurred just south of the Flat Creek bridge near the Sedalia water works.

Sullivan, a city fireman at Station house No. 1, had gone hunting with Phillip R. Bolten, 1121 East Thirtieth street. Bolten had gotten out of the car on the right side, while Sullivan got out of the car on the driver's side.

Bolten said he was standing on the ground when he heard an explosion and ran around to the other side of the car to find Sullivan lying on the ground. Getting Sullivan back into the car he drove to the Bothwell hospital where Dr. M. P. Shy rendered medical treatment.

Entire Load in Body
According to Bolten, Sullivan evidently had reached into the car and was taking the gun out of the barrel.

The wound appeared as if the entire load had struck Sullivan, tearing through his clothing and lodging in the front part of the hip.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sullivan of 313 East Saline street.

GM Agrees To Discuss Strike

DETROIT, Nov. 29—(AP)—General Motors tonight accepted an invitation to discuss with the government the strike which for nine days has kept 225,000 GM workers of the country idle.

The corporation, which earlier today turned its back on further negotiation with the striking CIO United Auto Workers until the union "modifies" its demands, agreed to discuss the strike with the labor department.

Edgar L. Warren, chief of the Federal Conciliation service, extended the invitation by telephone tonight to Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president, and the invitation was promptly accepted. The two will meet next Tuesday at 10 a. m. in Washington.

Warren said in Washington the purpose of his discussion with Anderson would be to try to get negotiations "resumed as soon as possible."

In a press conference previously President C. E. Wilson said General Motors would not return to negotiations over the union's demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase until the union had offered a modification and halted "illegal picketing" of GM plants.

Elsewhere on the GM strike front tonight, the UAW-CIO at Saginaw, Mich., announced it would give a $100 reward for the "arrest and conviction" of persons responsible for vandalism in that city.

Bricks had been hurled through the window of the home of one Saginaw General Motors executive and a log was rolled up against the door of another. The union disclaimed any responsibility.

Steps To Rush 'Vets' Homeward

SA FRANCISCO, Nov. 29—(AP)—Army officials hoped to whittle down the backlog of impatient war veterans awaiting homeward transportation by five trainloads today, with 11 trains promised by the railroads to start 5,743 men toward home by nightfall. The backlog still would be 14,000 however, or 38 trainloads. Yesterday 10 trains pulled out with 4,327 men, leaving a backlog of 6,690, army port of embarkation officials announced.

A stepped-up air transportation schedule, to carry more than 12,000 veterans eastward daily, also was announced.

Navy Special And Goering Car In Sedalia

Two Exhibits In Interest Of The Victory Loan

"Fats" Goering's super-deluxe Mercedes-Benz automobile, now the property of the U. S. Army, was on display in Sedalia Thursday evening and exhibits in a Navy Victory Loan special train also were scrutinized by hundreds of Sedalians, including many children, who visited these Victory Loan attractions at the Missouri Pacific tracks and Osage avenue.

The Navy train arrived during the afternoon and was open to the public from 4 p. m. to 10 p. m. Opening ceremonies included talks by Mayor A. H. Wilks of Sedalia, Charles L. Hanley, general chairman of the Pettis County Bond Drive, and Lieut. Commander William T. Thomas.

It was pointed out by both local speakers that this county, which in seven previous war bond campaigns has met the quotas, but currently is approximately $122,000 short of reaching the E bond goal of $322,400.

"Our servicemen have done their part—they fought for victory, and it is up to us who have been at home to complete the job by buying Victory bonds to finance the return of the soldiers, sailors and marines overseas and to implement the rehabilitation of the wounded," Mr. Hanley said.

Drive Closes December 8
The drive, which opened October 29, closes December 8.

Mayor Wilks, who outlined briefly the exhibits aboard the special train, declared in concluding his speech that "I am sure I voice the sentiments of all Pettis counties that we ought to and will not fail to fill our quota of $322,400 in the Eighth Victory Loan campaign."

An inspiring attraction on the train is a duplicate of the bronze plaque on the Battleship U. S. S. Missouri, commemorating the surrender of the Japanese on September 2. Inscribed are these words:

"Over this spot on 2 September, 1945, the instrument of formal surrender of Japan to the Allied powers was signed thus bringing to a close the second World War. The ship at that time was at anchor in Tokyo Bay. Latitude 35 degrees, 21' 17" North; Longitude 139 degrees, 45' 36" East."

Displays Extensive
Among the extensive naval displays of equipment and provisions was a Seabee group, depicting through scale models and a mural the equipment used by the fighting construction battalions.

Of special interest was a demolition rubber suit, complete with webbed footgear, used by navy men in highly specialized operations that preceded attacks by task forces. A deep-sea diving outfit, with completed gear weighing 190 pounds, drew attention. These fantastic outfits are used in submarine rescue work.

A sign in the last display car revealed that on November 24 the navy demobilized 13,328 personnel, and another placard stated the aim of "one-third of the men home by Christmas; two-thirds by Easter and all by Labor Day."

Signal flags were flown from the open "decks" of the train.

An item of interest in the second covered car was a model of a 100-ton timber floating drydock which saved many ships that otherwise would have sunk. Displayed along the wall of this car were the medals awarded to men in naval service, including the three highest, the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Navy Cross and the Distinguished Service Cross.

Hermann Goering's powerful convertible sedan, built to provide sufficient allowance for the birth of its once bemedaled owner, was removed under fire from the garage at his hunting lodge at Berchtesgaden by men of the 506th Parachute Infantry, 101st Airborne Division, who brought the car to Sedalia. These men, who volunteered to go on tour with the sleek-black machine in the interest of the Victory Loan Drive are:

First Lieut. Jack G. Holland, Rocky Mount, Va.

Tech. Sgt. Thomas F. Meggs, Union County, N. C.

Cpl. Roderick D. Smith, Tooele, Ga.

Sgt. Richard Falvey, Yonkers, N. Y.

Staff Sgt. Frank J. Malik, Detroit, Michigan.

Warn Hunters To Be Careful With Guns

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 29—(AP)—Seventy-three hunting accidents have occurred in Missouri since the first of the year—10 of them this month—the conservation commission said today in warning hunters to be more careful with their firearms.

"Most of the accidents may be attributed to sheer carelessness," a commission spokesman said.

"For example, a Jackson county man was killed crawling through a barbed wire fence with his loaded gun. A deer hunter was killed when his brother carelessly pointed a gun at him, while the two were hunting together."

Snow Where Fliers Missing

Rescue Crews To Area With Food And Supplies

COOS BAY, Ore., Nov. 29—(AP)—Snow began falling today over the rough, wooded terrain where seven men have been missing since an army transport crash last Monday.

Rescue crews packed with truckloads of food and supplies and jeeps equipped to pass muddy fire roads, roved through the isolated mountains 50 miles northeast of here.

Five of the men who parachuted from the plane were resting in a hospital here, and Flight Officer Dave Reed, who hung 150 feet high in a fir tree 36 hours, was as chipper as any.

Reed, of Altus, Okla., was rescued from the tree by Roy Spires, a high-climber from a nearby logging camp. Reed walked into the hospital here and declared he was feeling "pretty good" before being whisked to bed.

Hung On To Limb
"A pretty rugged character," commented another survivor, Flight Officer Ralph Foster, Wichita, Kas. "He tied his belt around a limb of the tree, and hung on that way. He told us he went to sleep just once—long enough to start slipping off the limb and wake up fast."

Reed told companions, who located him the night of the crash, that he didn't get very cold despite the pounding rain. "I had some company, too," he said. "Five elk—two of them little fellows—spent a morning eating grass around my tree."

Four of the men—Foster; Flight Officer Ted G. Hartzog, Greenwood, S. C.; Flight Officer Floyd C. Waddell, LaPlata, Mo.; and Major Frank Gaunt—reached a trailer house in the isolated crash area Tuesday. But it was today before all could be brought down from the rugged, almost roadless region.

Searchers today were concentrating on the area near Bear Creek, a meandering stream which would have led the missing fliers on a two-weeks hike before hitting any sign of civilization. Hartzog landed at the edge of the stream, knocking himself temporarily unconscious.

Hurley To Be Asked To Appear

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Major General Patrick J. Hurley will be asked to appear before the senate foreign relations committee Wednesday to tell about his resignation as ambassador to China.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) made that announcement tonight after a meeting with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Connally and other legislators on an eight-man liaison subcommittee which visited the state department late today.

The foreign relations chairman said the Oklahoma soldier-diplomat might be allowed to testify in open session—"that hasn't been decided yet." Most meetings of that committee are held behind locked doors.

Hurley, in resigning charged that career diplomats were thwarting U. S. policy in Asia.

Claimed They Didn't Know They Were Robbing Bank

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 29—(AP)—A lobby full of customers didn't know a robbery was being committed at the Fidelity National bank yesterday—and the two men claim they didn't know they were holding up the teller for $13,505.

The robbery was executed by two Negroes armed only with a pasteboard box containing a note instructing the cashier, Mrs. Betty Jean Phillips, to fill the box with big bills under threat of death to herself and others in the bank. The note was ostensibly signed by the escaped convict, Matt Kimes. Audaciously, it ordered the teller to give the Negroes $5 for carrying out the holdup.

The note stated that "This Messenger" was a representative of the Kimes gang and that he and three members of the gang

House Would Ban Women Bartenders

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 29—(AP)—A bill to prohibit women from working as bartenders in places serving liquor squeaked through the Missouri house of representatives today with one vote to spare.

The vote was 77-17, with 76 required. The bill's author, Daniel Curran (D) of St. Louis, contended that during the war many women had taken jobs as bartenders but that with peace they should give up their places to returning veterans.

A colleague from St. Louis, Rep. Joseph P. Kiely, also a Democrat, said he couldn't see the purpose of the bill and asked the house to defeat it.

Under the measure's provisions only a woman who is a licensee or the wife of a licensee may tend bar. The bill has had a precarious career since Curran introduced it. A committee killed it once, but at the author's request it was considered again and approved for action on the house floor. It now goes to the senate.

Recover Loot In Robberies

Released Convict Being Held For Two Bank Holdups

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 29—(AP)—U. S. Commissioner George S. Allen said tonight that federal charges of robbery have been filed against a man who identified himself as Ollie Ray, Jr., 21, Baxter Springs, Kas., in connection with bank robberies at Helper and Stark, Kas., shortly before noon today.

Charges were filed against the man, who is being held in jail at Parsons, Kas., on complaint of the FBI, Commissioner Allen said.

At Parsons, Chief of Police Lyle Witty said Ray, who said he was recently released from the Oklahoma state penitentiary at McAlester, had been identified as the robber today by five customers and officials of the two banks.

Witty reported that $1,138 was recovered. The police chief said $308 was found in the man's clothing, $828.18 in sacks found in the automobile he was driving, and $250 in a pocket of his clothing.

Released From Prison
The police chief said the man told him he was released ten days ago from the McAlester prison, where he had served a sentence from Miami, Okla., for attempted jail breaking.

Announcement of the arrest came less than three hours after the two rural banks had been held up by a lone robber in a space of 35 minutes—the Helper bank at 11:10 a. m. and the Stark bank at 11:45 a. m. The towns are about 7 miles apart.

The arrest was made by two Parsons policemen, Joe Dailey and Allen Harding, who spotted the car, a Chevrolet coach, in the downtown district and began pursuit. The driver surrendered without resistance after a 10-block chase.

Chief Witty said identification of the man as the robber was made by W. E. Craig, cashier of the Stark bank; Wilbur Wood, a filling station attendant at Stark, who said he serviced the man's car about five minutes before the robbery; Mrs. Clayton Davis, cashier of the Helper bank; Mrs. Alberta Johnson, bookkeeper at the Helper bank, and Mrs. Mary Jones, a Helper bank customer.

Craig said an armed man entered the Stark bank and tried to force him to open a safe operating under a time lock. He convinced the robber that the safe couldn't be opened. The man scooped up some coins and currency from the cashier's cage, and fled.

MARSHALL, Mo., Nov. 29—(AP)—Dr. C. L. Lawless, coroner, reported today that Mrs. Denia Buchanan, 57, hanged herself last night in her home here.

Ill health was ascribed by Dr. Lawless as the cause of the suicide.

Eleven Rice Farms Sold At Auction

Near Quarter Of Million For Choice Lands In County

Eleven of the Rice Leghorn Farms owned by Oke L. Rice, sold at public auction, Thursday afternoon at the Liberty theater, brought near a quarter of a million dollars. It took a little more than two and a half hours for the auctioneers to dispose of the farms, to buyers in an audience of more than 650 persons.

The farms totaling 4,988 acres were sold at an average of $44.93, an acre and an overall total amounted to $224,129.

Those familiar with auctions say it was one of the largest land auctions held in these parts, and the first of its kind to be sold by an individual. Mr. Rice stated he was forced to dispose of his holdings due to the growth of his poultry business to such large portions in recent years that it is consuming all of his time and efforts to properly manage it. "I am convinced," Mr. Rice said "that those who bought these farms will in the very near future, if they so desire, sell them at a good profit as I anticipate land value in Pettis county will increase."

Tom Smith Higgins, veteran of World War II recently discharged from the service in which he was a staff sergeant in the army attached to a heavy bomber group in China, purchased the Gibson farm of 510 acres, which joins the 350 acre farm of his father Frank H. Higgins north and west of the Hughesville. He was the only veteran who was successful in the bidding on the farms, although several others in the audience made bids on various farms.

"Married To Farm"
Higgins bid was $25,000 in which was included a mortgage of $17,500. The sale averaged $50 per acre. Higgins when questioned by a reporter "are you married," replied, "No, I haven't a wife, but I am married to this farm now."

The first to be auctioned off was the Tuck farm, of 674 acres fourteen miles northwest of Sedalia near Houstonia. It was bought by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tolson, Johnson, Stanton county, Kansas. The purchase price including the mortgage of $26,000 was $37,070.

Mr. and Mrs. Tolson are moving from Kansas where they have resided since 1909 to make their home in Missouri. They will be assisted in the farming by their sons T. V. Keith Tolson, in the U. S. Army stationed at Manila, P. I., who is expected back soon and their fourteen year old son Dick.

Crawford Farm Sold
R. M. O'Bryan, Kansas City, Mo., purchased the second farm auctioned, it being the old Crawford farm of 380 acres. The farm was bought for the Midwest Land Co. of Kansas City as an investment. It brought $16,720 including in which is a mortgage of $10,500.

The farm is located on State Highway 127 two and a half miles north of La Monte.

The Jones farm of 687 acres was sold to J. L. Hieronymus, former Pettis county now residing at Buffalo, Okla., for $32,632.50 which includes a mortgage of $26,000. Mr. Hieronymus stated he bought the farm for an investment. It is located ten miles north of Sedalia and one mile south of Longwood.

Has Relatives Here

Eisenhower Urges German Trade Revival

Again Critical On Opposition From French

By JAMES F. KING
FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 29—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower, again criticizing French opposition to a central administration for Germany, declared today that revival of German trade, industry and agriculture was necessary to save the American taxpayer's money.

A "humanitarian" policy requires that food be imported into Germany without thought of eventual repayment, Eisenhower said in a report on conditions in Germany in October, his last monthly summation before he left to become U. S. army chief of staff.

Only yesterday the White House disclosed a report on Germany to President Truman by former Censorship Director Byron Price which criticized French occupational policies.

Eisenhower declared that French opposition to setting up central administrative machinery for occupied Germany continued all through October "and only in November were there indications of progress in obtaining establishment of central German administrative agencies."

He said the French likewise opposed a law to authorize a federation of German trade unions on a nation basis, with the French delegate declaring he would sign the law "only if each individual zone commander were permitted to forbid federation of trade unions within his zone with those outside."

Progress Is Slow
"On a number of other important matters, moreover, little progress was made during the month," Eisenhower commented.

He declared that revival of German agriculture, industry and trade, which is being encouraged by the military government, and the organization of German administrative machinery to assume responsibility for the program, were necessary to avoid expense to the American treasury.

"Although in a broad and historical sense the Germans are entirely responsible for their present economic predicament, it is American policy to take steps to prevent widespread starvation or disease so far as is feasible," Eisenhower said.

"This humanitarian policy requires imports of food and other items without positive assurance that an economically weakened German nation can ever pay for them."

"It is desirable from every point of view to build up as soon as possible a minimum German economy, which can provide without outside aid essential German civilian needs contemplated under the Potsdam agreement."

Resistance Evident
Eisenhower said that while restlessness has been noted in Germany "there is no indication of organized resistance, and the number of crimes of violence is in the aggregate still very small." His report a month earlier had said there was dangerous unrest which was "just one step" from organized resistance.

He warned that an influx of refugees and returning prisoners of war, boosting the population in the American zone close to 20,000,000 "carries with it potential dangers of unrest and disease, despite all efforts to house and feed these people."

Regarding German politics, Eisenhower said the time-consuming effort required of Germans "merely to keep alive and to prepare for the coming winter leaves few hours and little energy for other activities."

Delay To Warning Message

Revealed Japs, Making Bomb Plat, Before Pearl Harbor Attack

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles acknowledged today that the army had a Japanese message on Oct. 9, 1941, which could be interpreted in "hindsight" as showing the Japanese were making a bomb plat (map) of Pearl Harbor.

But at the time there was no reason to attach particular significance to the message, he insisted, because it was well known the Japanese constantly kept track of movements of American warships.

Miles testified before the joint congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor. In the months before the attack of Dec. 7, 1941, he was assistant chief of staff in charge of the military intelligence division, known as G-2. It was this division's duty to collect, evaluate and disseminate military intelligence.

His immediate superior was Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, who is expected to testify soon. Chairman Barkley (D-Ky.) announced today that Marshall wished to be heard before leaving on his assignment as special envoy to China.

Slow On Message
Marshall's warning to the Hawaiian army commander to "be on the alert," delivered after the attack, was laid before the committee. It was sent from Washington at 12:18 p. m., (eastern standard time) Dec. 7, 1941, received in Hawaii 45 minutes later but not delivered to Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short until three hours afterward.

Gives Address On Conserving Of The Soil

M. F. Miller In Urge Preservation Be Given Attention

M. E. Miller, Dean Emeritus, College of Agriculture, was one of the principal speakers on the 1945 Farm and Home Week program at the University of Missouri on November 19. His subject (Conserving Our Land Resources in the Reconstruction Period). The text of his address is as follows:

"Investigation by the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station indicate that not over one Missouri farm in ten is being completely maintained in fertility. In other words, the soil on most farms is still being depleted. To those unfamiliar with farm practices these statements may seem to stand as an indictment against Missouri farmers. However, when the situation is considered fairly and realistically it will be seen to be rather normal development, coming down from pioneer days, when soils were generally considered inexhaustible. Moreover, the difficulties of preserving the fertility of the land have been intensified by the usually low farm incomes and by the effects of two world wars, while at the same time the majority of farmers have either failed to appreciate the losses taking place or they have not known how to stop them.

Some Cause For Fertility Loss
The fact that there may have been just cause for much of the loss in fertility which has taken place from Missouri farms, provides little excuse for continued losses, particularly among the better informed farmers. It is now well understood that the conservation of the soil is vital to Missouri's future welfare. Upon such conservation depends the prosperity of the farmers and the well-being of the people in towns and cities. It has taken two world wars to convince the people as a whole of this important fact, but it is now generally recognized and it is essential that conservation measures be adopted as rapidly as possible.

What may be said regarding soil conservation may likewise be said of the two other important land resources, forests, and wildlife. The depletion of Missouri's forests and the decline in numbers of important wildlife species have gone along with soil depletion. Wasteful soil management practices, the removal of most of the best timber and the killing off of much of the wildlife, once so abundant, are all due to a continuation of pioneer ways. It is now high time that the ruinous effects of these practices are fully understood and means adopted for the substitution of conservation measures. The soil which supplies food for man and beast, also determines the natural growth of forests and of wildlife species. It is therefore, to this land resource that major attention must be given.

Soil depletion may be attributed to three major causes, first, soil erosion; second, the loss of the organic matter or humus from the surface soil; third, the removal of essential mineral elements through agricultural practices without a corresponding return through manures, lime, and fertilizers.

Loss By Erosion

Surveys show that two-thirds of the rolling uplands of Missouri have lost one-half or more of the surface soil through erosion. The remainder of this rolling land has in most cases lost significant amounts. Erosion lowers soil productivity, which in turn lessens the growth of plant cover thus exposing the soil to further losses. A vicious circle is thus developed which must be eliminated if the uplands of the state are to remain as agricultural lands.

A loss of over one-third of the humus or organic matter in the soils of the state has taken place since they were put into cultivation. This has been due primarily to erosion and to the effect of the production of grain crops. With it has gone an equal proportion of the nitrogen of the surface soil. As the nitrogen and humus supplies decline crops lose their thrifty appearance and their dark green color. An abundance of nitrogen and of humus is a first essential to continued soil productivity.

Mineral elements such as lime and phosphorus have been steadily removed since the soils were first plowed. Farmers have never given definite consideration to their replacement through adequate liming and fertilization. Without such replacement the land continues to decline in fertility.

The Missouri plan of land improvement, developed in organized form by the College of Agriculture, provides for the conservation of Missouri soils. This plan has been approved by the State and Federal agricultural agencies, the farm organizations, the labor groups, and many of the commercial and financial organizations of the state.

The principles embraced in the Missouri plan are readily understood. The first step is that of maintaining a good vegetation cover on the land for the control of soil erosion. Such a cover increases the penetration of the rains and holds the soil against running water. In providing this cover it is important to curtail the acreage of intertilled crops and to increase the acreage of pasture crops and others which cover the ground well. The improvement and extension of the use of pastures is one of the most important features of the plan.

The maximum acreage of tilled crops proposed include 4,500,000 acres of corn, 350,000 acres of sorghums, 425,000 acres of cotton, and 600,000 acres of soybeans, mostly cultivated; Small grains, including wheat, oats, barley and rye, some of which is pastured, total 7,600,000 acres. Lespedeza for all purposes—hay, seed and pasture—is placed at 9,000,000 acres; the other thick-growing legumes—alfalfa, sweet clover, and red clover, along with timothy, include 1,800,000 acres while permanent grass pasture totals 7,000,000 acres. Such an adjustment of acreages, properly distributed, will provide land cover.

The second step in Missouri plan is the use of terracing and contour farming for the further control of erosion. Such practices are essential on most rolling lands. About 500,000 acres of Missouri lands have been terraced while the total needed terracing is 5,000,000 acres. Contouring was practiced on 600,000 acres in 1944, while at least 13,000,000 acres should be so handled. It will thus be seen that while a good start has been made in the adoption of these practices the goal is far ahead.

Treatment of Soil

The third step in the plan is that of adequate soil treatments of lime, farm manure, and fertilizers. Here again much progress has been made, but farmers are far short of the required goals. In 1944 1,600,000 tons of lime were applied, while the lands needing it total around 9,000,000 acres. The total amount of fertilizer used in 1944 was 147,000 tons, while at least 1,000,000 tons should be applied annually for proper crop returns and soil maintenance.

A fourth step is that of building a large number of deep ponds to conserve water, lessen runoff, and provide for the successful pasture system included in the Missouri plan. Around 30,000 new ponds have been built but a total of 500,000 is needed.

A fifth step is that of improving the 16,000,000 acres of forest land and of bringing it under proper systems of forest management. This is a problem for the cooperative efforts of Federal and State agencies working with individual farmers.

Finally there is the matter of increasing the numbers in the important wildlife species which is largely under the supervision of the State Conservation Commission. Since the success of this project depends to a large degree on proper soil and forestry management, much can be expected in the years ahead.

It may be said in general that great progress in the conservation of land resources can be expected within the next decade. The interest shown by State and Federal agencies, the work in progress under the Soil District, Act of the legislature and the increasing interest of farmers and city people alike, should insure such a development.

Cars Damaged In Collision

No injuries were suffered, but two automobiles were badly damaged, in a wreck at the crest of the Georgetown hill, just south of Georgetown on the Grand avenue road, about 8 o'clock Sunday morning. Deputy sheriffs Ernest Beyer and L. L. Meyer made the investigation, but no arrests were made.

M. E. Dellaven, 405 North Hurley street, was going north driving his 1933 Dodge car and Edward Young, 818 North Grand avenue, driving a 1942 Chevrolet sedan of the Atlas Cab Co., was going south, when the cars collided head-on.

Minas, chief of reconditioning service at the hospital. The medal is given for heroic or meritorious service not involving participation in an aerial flight in connection with military operations against the enemy on or after December 7, 1941.

Bellmer first went into combat January 1, 1945, in Germany with the 310th Infantry regiment of the 78th division. He was cited for the Bronze Star for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy on January 30 in the vicinity of Simmerath, Germany. The mission of capturing several pillboxes in that vicinity was assigned to a platoon of Company E and the attack progressed, it was determined that there was a need for additional explosives. Bellmer, with a comrade, volunteered to return to the rear and obtain the necessary supply. Over difficult terrain and under intense artillery fire, he and his comrades dragged a sled loaded with the demolitions to a forward point. With the additional supply of explosives the mission was successfully completed and 24 prisoners taken.

"Lieutenant Maroney and another officer were attacked by infiltration snipers, and with disregard for his own safety, Lieutenant Maroney left the protection of a shell hole, crept to within close range and succeeded in killing the snipers with his pistol," the citation read.

"The following day," it continued, "when the unit was subjected to enemy counterattack, Lieutenant Maroney participated in a bitter engagement at close quarters, and though armed only with his .45-caliber pistol, killed one of the attackers.

"By his personal bravery and devotion to duty throughout the time his organization was in combat, Lieutenant Maroney won the admiration of officers and men and reflected great credit upon himself," it concluded.

"Lieut. Maroney was killed December 6, when a German mine exploded while he was acting as a forward artillery observer.

"Maroney Field"

"In a letter from Lieut. Col. Raymond Renola, now military governor of Schorndorf and Lieut. Maroney's former commanding officer, Mr. Maroney was informed that the men of the 10th (Century) division had named a baseball field at Schorndorf 'Maroney Field' as a tribute of the esteem in which Lieut. Maroney was held by the officers and men of the division.

"Lieut. Maroney, well known on the A. and M. campus, where he participated in almost every intramural sport, was college champion of speedball and horseshoes and league champion in ping-pong and water polo. He was a graduate of St. Thomas high school and entered the service in June, 1943. He went overseas in October 1944."

FSA Plans Its Work For 1945

Various Problems Most Important Are Stressed

The Pettis County FSA staff recently completed their Annual Plan of Work for the coming year. Oscar H. DeWolf, G. Glenn Freeland and Virginia Lee Slusher, FSA Supervisors worked with the County Advisory committee in completing these plans. Members of the committee are Frank B. Van Dyke, Smithton, McKinley Thomas, Beaman and Norman D. Gibson, La Monte.

In setting up this program, the committee first reviewed each FSA borrower. They determined whether or not the borrower was progressing and if FSA could continue to be of service to him. The supervisors, with the help of the committee listed for each borrower the better farm and home practices that could be established on that farm during the coming year.

Some Major Points
These practices form the basis for the county program of work, and seven were found to be the most important. They are as follows:

1. Uniform cattle program
2. Needed by 21 RR families and 16 FO families. When a borrower obtains an approved bull and 75% of his cows the same breed he is considered to have adopted this as a practice.

3. Swine sanitation
The most important point is to farrow pigs on ground where hogs were not located last year. Thirty three FO and 16 RR families need to adopt this practice.

4. Contouring
50% of intertilled crops should be planted on contour. FO borrowers should complete waterways and terraces. 17 families and 3 RR families should get this done.

5. Fertilizer and Lime
Use at least 1000 lb. of fertilizer or 15 tons of lime or both. 43 FO families and 7 RR families could do this profitably during the coming year.

6. Manure and fall plow gardens
By February 1st families who cannot less than 80 quarts

Police Assigned At Station Shiver In Chilly Room

While heating units were stoked and anti-freeze in motor vehicles was checked Friday as winter settled down to an invigorating state of frigidity in these parts one sector was without defense against the cold—the city hall.

The furnace there gave out, a hole in it from last year having disordered repair materials.

The principal point affected was the around-the-clock police department and with temperatures scurrying downward with the declining rays of the sun, headquarters became a cold spot indeed. Members of the force sought to thwart the chill by remaining in out-door garb. Overcoats became an essential indoors and reports were being taken and made, it was said, with gloved hands.

Set Up Smoky Oil Stoves
Oil stoves were sought and set up for emergency service, however the fumes in the inner sanctum radio room created a stifling atmosphere and the stoves could not be kept in constant use.

So while the inside officers puffed and blew, those assigned to the squad car basked in the warmth provided by the vehicle's heater.

How soon the oldish furnace could be repaired was a matter of conjecture, but it was hoped relief would be quickly forthcoming, or that the weather would do a reverse spin.

An unofficial reading late Friday night was 30 degrees and predictions were for lows of 20 to 25 degrees. The minimum temperature Friday, was 20 degrees at 7 a. m. and the maximum was 34 degrees at 3 p. m.

"Too d-cold," moaned the city hall employees.

An overheated stove at the residence of James Lowery, 921 East Sixth street, caused a run at 6:35 o'clock Saturday night. No damage resulted.

While at the above residence the companies received a call for the 500 block on East Broadway, where a 1940 Plymouth of Eli Nichols had caught fire. Damage of about $50 resulted. A water hose broke and alcohol sprayed over the motor and caught fire.

The fire companies received the call through the Sedalia Police radio.

Strolling Tot Gets Police Aid

Sedalia police had a late afternoon call Saturday in the person of a three-year-old boy, who apparently had decided to take a stroll unaccompanied.

The child, reported to police to be the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smallwood, 905 South Moniteau avenue, was first noticed about 4 o'clock crossing Broadway from the south side of the street. After negotiating the traffic he wandered over to the Socony-Vacuum service station on the northwest corner of Broadway and Ohio, but seemed in no conversational mood to reveal his name and address.

When he started to toddle west on Broadway, Lloyd Hedgpeth, the filling station manager, decided he needed a police escort, and that is how the boy happened to pay a visit at police headquarters where his parents found him shortly after 5 o'clock.

In the meanwhile the minions of the law washed the young visitor's face and entertained him in what was considered the best emergency nursery fashion. The little traveler was attired in a blue snowsuit, but had neglected to don his cap when he left on his tour.

2. At a later date, the president will discuss fully the international situation, particularly as it involves efforts of the nations to cooperate for peace. The discussion may be at a news conference.

3. Negotiations are now under way among the Allies ruling Germany for a revision of the Potsdam declaration on Germany in some respects. Chiefly the United States is seeking a modification of the arrangement which requires unanimous agreement among this government, Russia, France and Britain before any decisions can be made by the Allied Control Council in Berlin. This effort at revision grows out of Byron Price's report on the possible failure of American aims and policies in Germany.

Navy Special Car In Sedalia

Hopkins, Pfc. Frank Barnett, who at one time were military guards for the late President Roosevelt at the White House.

The mechanic with the unit is T/5 Cleon Kelly, who serviced the top official automobiles in Washington.

In 3,500 miles covered so far on the tour, the Goering sedan has given little trouble—two flat tires have been changed and once the fuel pump developed a defect.

The specially built car, which is 19 feet, one inch in length, and seven feet wide, has five forward speeds, an overdrive and a supercharger. The fuel capacity is 65 gallons of gasoline, and it travels six to seven miles to the gallon on good roads. The engine is 230 horse power, and the maximum speed about 130 miles an hour, Lieut. Holland, said.

Protected with thick bullet-proof glass, but with fabric collapsible top, the car evidently was used for parades and ceremonies. Apparently someone took a shot at the rearmarshel for their are two bullet scratches in a window by the right rear seat which was Goering's position.

The vehicle has elaborate electrical equipment, having 24 switches and 25 different lights. There are 28 fuses in the fuse box while there are only two or three in American automobiles.

The Goering exhibit men, all eligible for discharge, stayed overnight in Sedalia, and will leave this morning for Jefferson City. Traveling with them is Wayne Garrison, treasury department representative for the Victory Loan in Missouri.

Condensed list of the navy exhibit:

a. First flat car—A 75 KVA generator that is both an exhibit and source of the electrical power for the operation of displays. The gun from the U.S.S. Ward that fired the first shot at Pearl Harbor and sank a two-man submarine.

b. Second flat car — A Coast Guard Helicopter and the air sea rescue equipment that is used in connection with this craft.

c. Third flat car — An LVT (Landing Vehicle, Tracked), an amphibious craft that was used for landings in the Pacific. An operating demonstration of naval radar.

d. Fourth flat car — An F6F, one of the Navy's carrier-based fighter airplanes. A Martin twin fifty caliber aircraft turret.

e. First baggage car — Naval ordnance; torpedoes, ammunition, bombs, mines, guns, bombsights, underwater demolition equipment, and rockets.

Protective Clothing

f. Second baggage car — Protective clothing that is worn by sailors; emergency food rations; a diver's suit; model pontoons and dry docks; information on personnel, and a display of medical equipment in a sick bay.

Visitors also saw how radar echoes draw a map of the area on the face of the cathode ray tube, how pips are picked up and interpreted and what the radar operator does when he sights a target.

Manning the exhibits and standing ready to explain them to the public were a crew of 22 sailors, marines and members of the coast guard. All of these men are combat veterans and are under the direction of Lt. Comdr. William Thomas.

A flea found imbedded in amber at Palnicken, East Prussia, is said to be more than 5,000,000 years old.

Mr. Starr, a former painter at the Missouri Pacific shops, resided at 308 East Third street.

Coroner K. R. Holdren was notified and in his investigation found death due to the cause as stated. An inquest will be unnecessary.

The body was taken to the Ewing Funeral Home to await completion of funeral arrangements.

Scenes of Nazi Concentration Camps Shown

NUERNBERG, Nov. 29—(AP)—Ghastly scenes of Nazi concentration camps were shown in motion pictures today to the international military tribunal but some of the Hitlerite leaders on trial sat with averted eyes during the showing of the grim film record of German cruelty.

The grisly pictures of mass murder sobered Reichsmarshal Herman Goering and others of the score of defendants who had grinned and laughed earlier as an American prosecutor disclosed the threats, bluffs and deceit with which Hitler softened up Austria for an unopposed invasion.

Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's "financial wizard," sat with his back to the screen, refusing to look at the official U. S. Army film, Franz Von Papen, once Germany's wildest diplomat, refused to glance at the screen but could not shut out the sound of the narrator's voice describing the deaths of thousands of Nazi victims.

Rudolf Hess, on the other hand, showed an interest in the trial for the first time. Hitler's one-time deputy, who is trying to escape from the trial on a plea of lost memory, followed the uncensored film closely.

Gen 'Ike' Bids Troops Farewell

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who led the Allies in victory in Europe, sent this farewell message today to American troops who served with him:

"To each of you—good-by, good luck, and my undying thanks."

The lanky Kansan, known as "Ike" to GIs who followed him in North Africa, through France and the low countries to Germany, had intended to return to Europe for a last visit before assuming his duties as army chief of staff.

Circumstances, however, have prevented this, he said, adding that he would always regret that he could not give "a personal good-by to as many thousands of you as I could meet."

Eisenhower is in a hospital at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., recuperating from a severe cold. The text of his farewell message was issued by the war department.

The message sent to Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, who succeeded Eisenhower as American commander in Europe, was addressed "to every member of the United States forces in Europe."

But, said Gen. Eisenhower, "I mean to include every American who has served with me in the Mediterranean and in the European theater."

He told them there is yet much to do before the peace which they helped to win "can be firmly consolidated."

"In the memory of those gallant comrades who can never return, and in continued loyalty to the principles of free government for which United Nations waged this war, each of us must give his unremitting best until the job has been fully completed, he said.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 29—(AP)—Jo Ella Hull, who went home from the hospital as Clancy Charles ten days after her birth last September, was the center today of a controversy stirred up by a $100,000 damage suit.

Basis of the action against a hospital, a doctor and nurses was Mrs. Charles Hull's contention that upon return to her home near Checotah she discovered the child she said she had been assured was a boy was actually a girl.

Dr. Charles Ed White, a defendant, admitted there might have been an error in records but said he was certain Mrs. Hull, wife of a soldier in Germany, now had her own child.

"This is the first time," he told a reporter, "that I have ever heard of a mother not examining her child before she left the hospital."

The district court petition stated that the mother had no opportunity to examine the baby when it was brought to her room for feeding.

Mrs. Hull selected Clancy Charles as a name but changed it to Jo Ella.
